Herbert W. Armstrong updates Pasadena brethren by telephone

Pastor General Herbert W. Armstrong spoke to the Pasadena congregations from Jerusalem by telephone Nov. 1. His message is reprinted here for churches worldwide.

JERUSALEM - "This is Herbert W. Armstrong in Jerusalem. And over here it is now almost a quarter till 11 at night. I just came from a dinner hosted by Mayor Teddy Kollek and some of our fine old friends that have been friends of ours here for the last 12 years, and I've just come back here to our hotel suite in the Hilton Hotel, and I'll just give you a little rundown since last Sabbath in London.

"Sunday [Oct. 26] we flew on over to Cairo and Monday night we had a large banquet. About 300 were present. It completely filled a big ballroom of the Hilton Hotel there. And I spoke to the large crowd. I was introduced by Dr. [Mohammed Abdel Kader] Hatem, who now is, well he's been the prime minister. He's a little higher than that now, as a private adviser and private assistant to President [Anwar El] Sadat.

"Both he and Mr. [Stanley] Rader introduced me and then I spoke to them for — I don't know, I suppose 20 to 25 minutes — no, 30 or 35 minutes is more like it. And after our stay there we came on over to Jerusalem. I believe that must have been Wednesday, was it, or

"Wednesday we came over here to Jerusalem and some of our people are sort of sick to their stomachs. I think it was probably Cairo food, I don't know. And some of them have gone to bed tonight and especially Mrs. Armstrong. She went out to the dinner with us tonight.

"It was nice to see our old friends from Jerusalem and renew acquaintances, reminiscent of the first time that we had a luncheon in the Knesset here, which is their national capitol. And when Moshe Kol [former Israeli minister of development and tourism] suggested we build that iron bridge between Ambassador College and Hebrew University, we built the bridge, it's still standing, we're still traveling back and forth

"And everybody is having a good time — everybody is happy. Of course 12 years ago on Dec. 1 we came over to give them our decision that we would go in with the big archaeological project here, and the former president [Zalman] Shazar, of course, is now dead, and there have been two more presidents since. Of course I know them both.

"And the president of Israel was visiting with President Sadat while we were in Cairo. Because of his being there and because President Sadat wants to have quite a conference with me (we have our television crew along), it's all going to be photographed, and we're going to give President Sadat a cover story with his picture on the front cover of The Plain Truth and also on the front cover of Quest magazine.

"And so we decided to come over here [to Jerusalem] and go back to Cairo later when Mr. Sadat will have more time and then we will have our meeting there. But we had the little meeting there tonight.

"And yesterday we were down over part of the Old City and up on the Mount of Olives and showing some of our guests that have come along with us parts of Jerusalem with their first visit here.

"Well, I won't speak to you much longer. It's late at night here. It's morning there, and you people will have to be getting out so that in due time they can get ready for the people for the afternoon service to commence. But I'm glad to say hello to all of you dear people there in Pas-adena and everything is going well here. We've had a little bit of stom-ach trouble and diarrhea, one thing and another, but we're all generally well and getting over that kind of thing in just a day or so.

"Everything is fine here, so I will say good night now and good morning to all of you and tell the after-noon people hello for me — maybe they can hear this recorded.

"Bye-bye from Jerusalem."

Pastor general visits Britain en route to Cairo, Jerusalem and Kevin Dean LONDON, England — A vibrant and powerful Herbert W. Armstrong thundered the Gospel to a capacity crowd of more than 1,000 brethren in the Brent Town Hall on the Sabbath, Oct. 25. Several mem-bers from France, Belgium and the Netherlands crossed the English Channel to hear God's apostle.

Mr. Armstrong's two-hour message was the first time he had spoken to the English brethren in person in more than three years. As the pastor general vigorously addressed the assembly on the purpose of human life and God's plan for mankind, video cameras recorded the event for later

Ministerial meeting

The Church service was the key event in a four-day visit to Britain en route to Egypt and Israel. Mr. Arm-strong and Church treasurer Stanley R. Rader played host to a lun-cheon Oct. 23 for 10 ministers of God's Work in Britain. Three hours were spent by Mr. Armstrong and Mr. Rader in a planning session discussing the Work here.

Following lunch, regional direc-tor Frank Brown presented the pastor general with a copperplate etching of Richard David Armströng Memorial Hall on the former Bricket Wood campus of Ambassador College here in England. Accepting the award, which was presented on behalf of all the churches in the United Kingdom and Ireland, Mr. Armstrong promised to place it in a place of honor in the Hall of Administration on the Pasadena campus.

Bricket Wood visit

On Friday, accompanied by his wife Ramona, Mr. Armstrong visited the former Bricket Wood campus. A crisp autumn day provided the setting as they visited Memorial Hall, Loma Hall and Lakeside, landmarks that have re-tained their college names. Howard Silcox, former head gardener of the English campus, was retained by the new owners, the Central Electricity Generating Board.

The board is the government agency responsible for electric power generation in the United Kingdom. The company uses the former campus facilities for research and management training of senior personnel.

Mr. Armstrong left for Cairo, Egypt, and Jerusalem Oct. 26.

Dean awards plaque for service

PASADENA - Myrtle Horn was honored for 25 years of service to Ambassador College at a recep-tion Oct. 31 attended by faculty, students and friends. Greg Albrecht, dean of students, presented Mrs. Horn with a plaque.

Mrs. Horn came to Pasadena in October, 1955, to work in the col-lege kitchen, and soon became manager. In 1960 she transferred to the English campus in Bricket Wood, to serve in catering and as a housemother for the women students.

Among many memorable experiences, Mrs. Horn recalls her five years of participation in the archaeological project in Jerusalem. She traveled extensively throughout Europe before returning to Pasadena in 1974, this time to work in Herbert W. Armstrong's home. One of her chief responsibilities was to help or-ganize formal dinners Mr. Armstrong gave for the students in his

Mrs. Horn is now women's counselor at Ambassador College, in addition to her other responsibilities in Mr. Armstrong's home. "I've always enjoyed my work here. I've had so many blessings," she said.

PASADENA - Le Monde A Venir, the French version of The World Tomorrow program, has been broadcast continuously for more than two decades, says evange-list Dibar Apartian, the voice of the Now thundering out over the 1.5-million-watt Radio Europe No. 1 and several stations in Canada and the Caribbean, the program had modest beginnings. Mr. Apartian relates that he was working in his small office on the Ambassador Col-lege campus in 1960 when Herbert Armstrong stopped by with a stun-ning request. "Make six audition ning request. "Make six audition tapes for Radio Luxembourg in Europe," he told Mr. Apartian. As yet unordained, Mr. Apartian recalls that he nearly panicked. "I had no training in broadcasting," the evangelist said. "And manifold problems presented many obsta-cles."

Having just completed the French translations of Why Were You Born? and booklets on faith and healing, he decided to read them as his script. However, the salutation used by Mr. Armstrong ("Greet-ings, friends!") has no French equivalent. While praying about this problem, Mr. Apartian said he suddenly thought of an old French expression: A bon entendeur A salut [To those who have ears, greetings!], and it became the opening phrase for the program.

The six programs were made and sent for consideration to Radio Luxembourg, one of the two most powerful stations in Europe. The programs were accepted and Le Monde A Venir was born.

Soon the evangelist incorporated more of Mr. Armstrong's style of speaking though "French doesn't normally use a lot of inflection and America under Reagan: How much change?

PASADENA - Election 1980 was viewed by many Americans as a crossroad in their country's history. Perhaps, they hoped, it was still not too late to turn America around.
Will this now happen? Will President-elect Ronald Reagan, who conducted his campaign, in part, as a crusade to get America moving again, be able to restore America's pride overseas and to free the American people from the shackles of a suffocating bureaucracy?

President-elect Reagan certainly received an overwhelming mandate to effect such a change. Not since the election of 1932 had an incumbent President suffered such a massive repudiation at the polls. Along with Mr. Carter, several pivotal lib-eral senators were also buried under the wreckage. Republicans won control of the U.S. Senate.

The magnitude of Mr. Reagan's victory stunned the pollsters. Only the Lou Harris agency came close to predicting the outcome. Many ex-perts now believe that Mr. Reagan probably won the televised "Great Debate," one week before the election, by a bigger margin than pre-viously thought, and that the pollsters failed to take this last-minute change fully into account.

More trouble abroad

The first mess Mr. Reagan might have to deal with is the issue of the 52 American hostages in Iran unless the lame-duck administra-tion can bring about a solution before Inauguration Day, Jan. 20. Iran's Ayatollah Khomeini, after imposing a humiliating year of shame on "that Great Satan" (the United States) openly attempted to intervene in the American election by dangling before a desperate Mr. Carter the prospect of the release of the hostages. The ayatollah obviously preferred to keep a manageable Mr. Carter in the White House, and did all he could to influence the Newspapers around the world denounced the Ayatollah Khomeini's move as "blackmail." However, his gestures of cooperation were given only after Mr. Carter and other members of the administration sided with Iran in the Iraq-Iran war (such as expressing support for Iran's territorial integrity).

Thus, who played politics first?
- the ayatollah — or Mr. Carter?
In dealing with the Soviets — and they are certain to test Mr. Reagan somewhere soon, as they have done nearly all U.S. Presidents -President will have a tough

Talk of scrapping SALT II and forcing the Kremlin into a substitute SALT III deal is fanciful rhetoric. The Soviets have striven hard to achieve at least military parity with archrival Washington and are not about to let their growing advantage

America's allies are in a quanda ry, too. Even though some have publicly called for a return to U.S. Free World leadership, the reality is that the world has moved on since America's humiliation in Vietnam in 1975. It might be difficult for the United States to reassert its once-dominant role.

Rot at home

It is on the domestic front that the new President will have his most difficult time. Except for calling for a sizable tax cut, Mr. Reagan has been short on specifics as to how he wants to revamp the sluggish infla-tion- and debt-ridden economy.

How much latitude will he really have? The federal government bureaucracy is a beast running un-checked, out of control, a power unto itself, beyond the efforts of any one president or administration to reform it. Mr. Reagan will be the first President in history to spend $2 billion a day. He speaks of fractional budget cuts and of slowing the increase in federal spending.

The former California governor was elected with the assistance of the so-called Moral Majority, a growing movement of concerned churchgoers troubled with the government's sponsorship of morality-debasing programs. But it is doubtful whether the new administration can really change the broad course of moral decay the country is on.
The self-centered Me Generation is in full bloom. America, says historian Walter Lacquer, is now enveloped in an "anarchic tide of egoism." It is just like in the time of the judges in ancient Israel — "In those days there was no king in Israel [and America has suffered from a lack of true leadership]: every man did that which was right in his own eyes" (Judges 21:25).

America is beyond rescue by strong leadership at the top unless the people themselves turn from their self-indulgent course. Adds Mr. Lacquer, "Even the most tal-ented leaders will be unable to save democracy for a society whose su-preme value is satisfaction of the American society today is similar to the way William Simon found the U.S. economy to be when he became treasury secretary in 1974. He writes in his book, A Time For Truth:

"As secretary of the treasury I could see the entire picture of what was going on in the economy at every level . . . in graphs, charts and tables. The experience was shattering. It was very much like being a physician staring at a wall full of X-rays and a stack of sophisticated test results and realizing that the patient was not just sick, but that every vital organ was threatened."

How similar to the way God describes our entire society — not just the economy — in Isaiah 1:5-6: "... the whole head is sick, and the plied: "But should that bind the rest of the citizens who may not believe in the Bible?"

America's mainstream religious leaders certainly cannot halt the moral toboggan slide, having abandoned true religion for the social gospel long ago.

Now we see developing - in the United States and Britain — the ultimate insult to God on the part of some theologians: the attempt to de-sex the Bible by substituting neuter or feminine designations for many masculine words and phrases in the Bible. (See U.S. News and World Report, Nov. 3, 1980, p. 51.)

Feminist scholars and other ultra-liberal theologians want to de-

Religious leaders helples

Moral Majority people, sincere though they may be, will have an uphill battle challenging the debasing — and often government-sponsored — trends eating away at the social fabric, primarily the family

Mr. Reagan himself gave indication of what he is up against when he told an interviewer during the campaign that society shouldn't con-done the gay rights movement. Asked whether his objection to homosexuality was based on the Bible, he answered, "Well, you could find that in the Bible it says that in the eyes of the Lord, this is an abomina-

Whereupon the interviewer resexify the thousands of passages re-ferring to God as Father, Lord, King or He. References to The Fawould be changed to The Parent or The Source. References to Christ as the son of God would be changed to child of God.

'God bless America again

A pop-country song called 'America" rocketed to the top of the charts earlier this year. Its country-rock singer, trying to lift up America's lagging spirits, noisily and nasally - intoned:

"The eagle's been a flyin' slow, and the flag's been flyin' low. And a lotta peoples, sayin' that America's fixin' to fall." To which he disagreed, claiming that once again, "We're walkin' real proud and we're talkin' real proud and we're talkin' real loud again."

And the future? The singer proclaimed that "we're going to put our feet back on the path of righteousness and then, God bless America

That is indeed the only prescription — but it's extremely unlikely to happen. God can't bless America when some of its religious leaders attempt to eradicate the very per-sonality of God from His holy written Word.

Mr. Reagan made an emotional and obviously sincere appeal for God's help and guidance at the end of his convention acceptance speech in Detroit last July, something his "born again" predecessor wouldn't have thought of doing. It will be an interesting new team in Washington to watch

One Church

One Church
The 1980 Feast of Tabernacles was the best Feast we have ever attended. It was great to be with God's people at Brighton, England.
The highlight of the Feast was to be able to see and hear you [Herbert Armstrong] live on Thursday evening, it was very moving to be all together as one Church.
We thank God the transfer of the control of the Church.—

We thank God that He raised you back to health again in order to get His Church back on the track, in order to get His Work finished.

We saw the film, the Young Ambassa dors, and we really enjoyed it. One day we hope to be able to visit God's college. The only sad thing about the Feast is that the time has come for us to go

But we look forward to the future with hope, knowing that God is preparing us for positions in His soon coming govern-

Joyous occasion
As we joined in to sing praises to God, I could imagine what a joyous occasion for God's angels to hear praises being sent up to God from around the world. Unity in voice and spirit

You know [Herbert Armstrong], this was one of the most exciting days of my life. Today, because of the microwave hockup, we were able to see you and hear you speak live. I can't in words describe how good it made me feel. And to know that we were singing along with scores of thousands of God's children in unison (both in metal). thousands of ood schildren in unison (both in voice and spirit) quite literally brought tears of joy to my eyes. God must certainly have appreciated hearing so many voices singing praises to Him together.

Meaty sermons

So much meat was given in the sermons. Correction, yet it was given in a way that makes yeu want to change. I saw so much I need to change about myself. Especially in attitudes. I shall strive to overcome and hope to work on all those problems presented in the sermons.

Just one more thing By Dexter H. Faulkner I have just heard the saddest news a person could hear. Three families my wife and I were close to died.

We labored together, we suffered trials together, we bore children together, we laughed together, for 20 years. We had one thing in common — we were all members of God's Church. But they have been disfellowshipped.

I have tried to analyze what brought about our friends' tragic demises. Did they underestimate the enemy? Did they not recognize Satan's constant attempts to divide and conquer? Were they unaware of his ongoing efforts to destroy God's fledgling, Spirit-begotten Family through rebellion? Perhaps at conversion they failed to realize that they were facing the greatest battle a human can wage.

Maybe they didn't know where the battle was being fought - that it was right there in their minds. Day after day they should have been fighting and winning those battles — consistently saying no to self, the world and Satan, and yes to God. We receive a small amount of God's Spirit at baptism, but we are supposed to grow in grace and knowledge. We do not yet have it made. The Holy Spirit must be exercised

Did our friends not understand how God's Spirit works? Were they sitting back, year after year, waiting for some kind of special inspiration, for God's Spirit to move them in some mystical way? Did they not expect to be beset with every kind of physical and spiritual struggle imaginable? Were they not aware of Satan's devices, or of what conversion means — change? Receiving the Holy Spirit at baptism is not the end — it is only the beginning.

When you first plant a seed in your garden, it would be ludicrous to invite your friends over to look at the beautiful flowers or vegetables you have produced - there aren't any yet.

The seed must germinate. The first buds must poke their heads out of the soil. You need to water and fertilize the plant and make sure the dirt around it is loose. In the case of fruit trees or some types of flowers, it may take years before any fruits or blossoms are produced. But only then has the purpose for which you planted the seed been realized.

It is the same way with conver-sion. God places His Holy Spirit sion. God places His Holy Spirit within us to begin the process of our spiritual growth toward His Kingdom. But much must yet happen. We need to be fed with the food of God's Word. We must properly adapt to the hostile environment around us. We must exercise our spiritual muscles and become stronger.

God will chasten and test us prune us, if you please — to further our growth until we have the quality of spiritual character He desires Only when we have attained "the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ" (Ephesians 4:13) is our struggle to qualify over. We can then be spiritually born into God's

Every Christian needs to understand this process of conversion, and that's what it is — a continuing process. We are to stir up the Spirit—use it to grow— exercise godly character. Otherwise we, you and I, are prone to suffer the tragedy that creates for our brethren "the saddest news a person could hear" the tragedy of spiritual death

Drama of ancient land unfolds for 170 brethren at Jerusalem

News editor Michael Snyder traveled to Jerusalem with the Worldwide Church of God's Israel trip for the Feast of Tabernacles. In the following article, he recounts some of the highlights of the trip.

By Michael Snyder
JERUSALEM — "I must by all means keep this feast that cometh in Jerusalem" (Acts 18:21), said the apostle Paul to God's Church at Ephesus, referring to the annual Feast of Tabernacles. More than 1,900 years later, 170 members of the Philadelphia era of God's Church echoed Paul's words, com ing from all corners of the globe to meet in the ancient city.

Thanks to the miracle of modernday jet travel, brethren covered thousands of miles in hours rather than days, and soon found that the land of Israel is a paradox, with modern technology standing alongside time-honored tradition. The re-ality of a nation posed to defend itself struck us immediately, as we left our plane under the steely gaze of an Israeli commando with an automatic rifle cradled in his arms.

A hardy nation

Modern-day Israel is a state locked in an ongoing struggle with the desert. Water is a precious commodity, the lack of it presenting the same problems faced by kings David and Solomon thousands of years ago. Luxuries come hard in this land, and Israel's native-born chil-dren are dubbed Sabras after a tough and hardy eactus found in the desert.

Brethren soon discovered this to be a far different Feast - instead of frequenting steak houses and pizza parlors, we found ourselves in places like Megiddo, watching Israeli Phantom jets thunder through the immense valley — seeing perhaps a foretaste of the 200-million-man army prophesied to gather here (Revelation 9:16, 16:16).

As in other places the Rible comes alive during a swim in the Sea of Galilee, the sea Jesus Christ walked upon during His ministry. This awareness continues at the ruins of Capernaum, where the remains of a synagogue and city give mute testimony to the power of the curse pronounced by Christ on the city (Matthew 11:23). Once a prosperous international city populated by merchants and men of wealth its fallen blocks of stone seem to ring out with Christ's words.

Lasting impressions

A Feast in Israel reckons to be an eye-opening learning experience as well as a recreational one. Traveling through the media-termed "West Bank," our group is soberly re-minded of the times we live in, by the many military checkpoints and antiaircraft stations bristling with weaponry.

Ironically, with this image fresh in our minds, our first glimpse of Jerusalem comes with a scene of the Mount of Olives, where Christ will return (Zechariah 14:4) with the perfect, permanent government that will finally bring true peace, ending multiple centuries of war. As we round the mount, we see the ancient walls of Jerusalem, built of yellow-orange rock.

A focal point of three major religions and the scene of countless bloody battles, the city graphically reveals why Christ wept for it. The fury of the Roman destruction of Jerusalem in A.D. 70 is eloquently portrayed in the massive stones cast about in disarray from the Temple Mount — uncovered in the past decade by excavations involving Ambassador College students.

A mixture of bittersweet agony and accomplishment, Jerusalem lies in the midst of a land bridge joining two continents, insuring its strate-gic importance to nations desiring to control the area. This was illustrated for the group by sonic booms from Israeli fighters violently shaking the large glass panes of the meeting room where services took place during the Feast.

The group visited the remains of the Masada fortress on the shores of the Dead Sea, a scene of past struggles. Emotions ran high among the group as the Israeli guides re-counted the onslaught of the Roman armada sent to crush the remains of the Jewish rebellion in the last half of the first century.

Atop the massive slab of rock, the ruins of the Roman camp and ramp built to breach the fortress can be clearly seen — sketching a panorama of hopelessness that eventually led 960 men, women and children to commit suicide to avoid canture and enslavement. (The story of Masada is to be covered in a future issue of The Plain Truth, according to Managing Editor Dexter Faulkner.)

Leaving the area, filled with a better understanding of the geography and a deeper understanding of God's Word, brethren who kept the Feast at God's future headquarters now look forward to the time of Zechariah 14:16 and Revelation 3:12, when the saying will be "Every year in Jerusalem" for the keeping of God's Festivals.

CULTURAL PARADOX — Israeli soldiers keep a watchful eye for terrorist violence at the Western Wall of the Temple Mount in Jerusalem, above. Throngs of Jewish pilgrims present during the fall Holy Days increase the danger of attacks by radical groups. Below, ruins of the Roman city of Caesarea mark the demise of an advanced culture. Some authorities claim the amphitheater in the background is the site of King Herod Agrippa's infamous speech (Acts 12:21-23) that resulted in him being devoured by worms. BRIGHTON - A religious conference at Brighton has proved that the sun really does shine on the righ-

When the Worldwide Church of God arrived last week for its nine-day conference at the Brighton Centre, council staff asked the organizers about cloakroom arrangements.

Although it had been raining every day for a week, the council was told: "We won't need them. It isn't going to rain."

And sure enough when the conference ended today, there had not been a drop of drizzle.

Pray for it

"We do believe God will give us good weather," said Worldwide Church of God press officer David Gunn. "People pray for it.

"Generally, we ask for good weather and we get it."

Hove weatherman Ken Wood-hams, a lay-preacher himself, con-firmed that the dry spell was one of the longest this year.

"I have a certain amount of faith," he said. "I would not be too sceptical about it.

"But it is one of those things. At the same time certain people, like gardeners, might want rain.

"But we can't have dry weather for every conference. They are here nearly all the time." Brighton Resorts Director Tony Hewison said at first the council thought the fair-weather prophecy was a bit of a joke.

"No one's told us that before," he said. "But I've been watching the weather every day and the sun has been shining.

"They are wonderful people. There have been 5,000 here, and the conference has been one of the long-est in Brighton. It has been worth one million pounds to the town.

"Now I have to admire their powers. They may have an arrangement I don't know about."

Looking out of his window at a cloudless blue sky, Mr. Hewison added: "I hope they come back again soon — we would like them between June 1 and Aug. 31 next ESCONDIDO, Calif. — Brent Davis, 15, was voted the Most Valuable Performer of San Pasqual High School's freshman track team. The past athletic season saw him break one county and three school track records.

In a meet against El Camino, Calif., High School, Brent broke both the school and county record in the (10-pound) shotput with a throw of 48 feet 8 inches. He broke the school discus record with a throw of 109 feet 7 inches in a meet with San Marcos High School

BRENT DAVIS

The triple jump record crumbled before Brent in a confrontation with Ramona High School, setting the new record at 36 feet 3 inches.

However, Brent disappointed his high school coaching staff when he revealed that he cannot participate in either football or basketball because their schedules interfere with his Sabbath keeping.

During the YOU Southwest Regional track meet in Pasadena Brent harvested three gold medals.

Brent is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Duffield Davis of Escondido, members of the San Diego, Calif., church.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N.J. —
Ronald Lewert, 17, attended
Boys' State at Rider College June 15-21. Ronald was chosen from among the top 10 percent of his class to represent the school.
The honor is based on leadership, character, scholarship, patriotism and service.

The program involved young men from 900 high schools across the state. Those selected learned about the executive branch of the government by serving for one week in a model state in such capacities as governor, mayor, senator, assemblyman, police chief or iudge.

Ronald plays soccer and baseball at school. He also plays the trumpet and drums in the dance band of the Union, N.J., church where he attends with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lewert.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. — The first Eagle Scout in Troop 275 is. Charles Randall Barrett, who received the honor Aug. 16. The award was presented by pastor William C. Cowan Jr., himself an Eagle Scout, who started the first Boy Scout troop affiliated with the Church 12 years ago in Little Rock, Ark. Charles, 16, also received the Chattanooga church's first Go'd and Country Award.

Charles, the son of Ridley and Jane Barrett, is an active YOU member. He plays basketball and recently placed second in the NILES, Mich. — Velvet Lady?

Who's she? She's an Appaloosa raised and trained by Mark Farmer. Together they captured the overall champion horseman trophy at the Cass County Fair in Cassopolis, Mich., Aug. 8.

For four years Mark participated in the Cass County 4-H Bridle Club as a member. Although he made A ratings, he never quite made it above third place. But this year was different.

MARK FARMER

Mark garnered the Marion Eubank traveling trophy, the highest honor attainable in horse showing at the fair. Also, he captured first place if reining.

Thus far this year his winnings totaled five trophies, 11 ribbons (he qualified by winning a new 4-H senior horsemanship class open to 4-H graduating seniors only), a $100 scholarship, which he is using at Ambassador College as a freshman, and other cash

Mark, now 19, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth G. J. Farmer. He was a YOU member before he came to college.

KAMLOOPS, B.C. — Not a Beethoven yet, but Joy Cuvelier was awarded first-class honors for grade 6 piano examinations as well as honors for piano theory June 2. She is 17.

She started taking piano lessons in 1974 and over the years has excelled in many music festivals presented by the prestigious Toronto, Ont.,

Conservatory of Music where she won many certificates of merit. In March, 1980, she received two scholarships for her efforts.

Joy continues to teach a beginners piano class that she initiated in 1978. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cupeliar.

Cuvelier.

As an active YOU member, she contributes a great deal to the Kamloops church by performing special music with her brother David, participating in talent shows and accompanying Church songs on the piano.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Daren

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Daren Clayton, 9, was chosen by the school teachers at Sayre Elementary School as the Most Outstanding Student of the year. At the award ceremony the school principal referred to Daren as the all-American boy and further stated that to have a perfect class every student would have to be a Daren Clayton.

Respectfulness and helpfulness to those in need qualified Daren for the award.

DAREN CLAYTON

Daren is the eldest of three sons of Gary and Wanda Clayton who attend the Ann Arbor church.

SEDONA, Ariz. — Shauna Fryxell, 12, was awarded the Kiwanis Club of Sedona's Citizenship Award of the year at the West Sedona School graduation exercises May 30. She received a certificate and a $50 United States savings bond.

Shauna, the daughter of Wayne and Carol Fryxell, is a member of the combined Prescott and Flagstaff, Ariz., churches' YOU chapter.

Centered around the God and hu-man families, enlightening mes-sages were given by Lionel Estinvil, Fiteau St. Fleur, Franklin Blaise and Jove Jean-Pierre. Bible-based plays about King Solomon and the Feast were written and performed by children of the brethren. Young people volunteered to serve food, clean up and help the senior citizens. Lionel Estinvil.

CHRIST CHURCH, Barbados Experiencing warm and humid weather, 493 people gathered at the Government Convention Center for this year's Feast of Tabernacles. With a central theme of preparing for the Kingdom of God, Herbert Armstrong's and Stanley Rader's messages on the first Holy Day were heard by all the brethren on tape. Douglas Smith, visiting from Canada, spoke on how to know God's will, maintaining faith in God and the responsibilities of parents and children. Carlos Nieto spoke on God's Kingdom. Victor Simpson and Car-los Nieto were ordained to the rank of preaching elder.
Social events during the eight days included a Jolly Roger boat ride, a dance and a YOU-YES party. The Feast was characterized by a spirit of unity and sincere concern among those attending. This year more than 140 brethren from Canada, the United States, Britain and various islands in the Caribbean attended. Carlos Nieto.

CROWN POINT, Trinidad and Tobago — An average of 421 breth-ren attended services in the Golden Thistle Hotel on this island in the West Indies. Bright sunshine spiced with light rain provided a pleasant backdrop for powerful sermons centered around a theme of preparing for rulership in God's soon-coming Kingdom. Speakers complement-ing Herbert W. Armstrong's taped mons were John Moskel, Glenn Harmon and Victor Simpson.

Social activities included the Young Ambassadors presentation, a senior citizens tea party, a chil-dren's party and Trinidad Night. YOU members enjoyed a party and aided in transportation and ushering. Visitors from overseas ex-pressed their appreciation for the outgoing attitudes of the brethren here. Victor Simpson.

19-year-old will be remembered

Ambassador College sonhomore Darlene Parks died of leu-kemia Sept. 2. Termed a "vigorous student" by faculty member Gary Antion, Darlene appeared in the Ambassador College Feast Show, was named an all-star basketball player, worked as a staff writer for the Ambas-sador Portfolio and was baptized a few months before her death Darlene was a key figure in several high school activities in her hometown of Windsor, Ont., and served as the Windsor YOU president. The following article, which appeared in the Sept. 5 Windsor Star, is reprinted by permission.

By Paul McKeague WINDSOR, Ont. — Darlene Parks phoned her parents from Cali-fornia last Thursday to tell them she had leukemia.

"Don't you fall apart because I'm going to fight this to the end," the 19-year-old promised.

Her fight ended Tuesday.

After suffering massive compli-cations from the blood cancer, she died of a heart seizure at Huntington Memorial Hospital [University Hospital] in San Diego.
Although her fight was short, she kept her promise to the end. "She was let's-go-get-'em right to the end - even when she couldn't talk be cause of tubes in her mouth. She wrote on a pad to us, 'Don't be upset

At her old school, the flag hung at half-mast this afternoon as friends, fellow students, teachers and relatives attended funeral services at Windsor Chapel Funeral Home.

"She was amazing," said Budd, of the girl who had been valedictorian, an honors student, basketball player and editor of the school newspaper for two years.

He and other teachers at the school were shocked by the news of her death, he said.

"Why people like her? At her age she had so much to live for and so much to offer."

Fran Ricchi, pastor of the Windsor branch of the Worldwide Church of God, said Darlene had run the church's youth group almost single-handedly for two years.

"When you think of Darlene you associate her with life," he said Thursday. "In one sense this (funeral service) is going to be the most difficult I've ever done because she was so alive '

Member in Britain thanks U.S. brethren for solidarity

The following article is written by George D. Holden, a member of God's Church in En-gland. Mr. Holden expresses his thanks to Church members in the United States while the lawsuit brought by the California attorney general was in process.

By George D. Holden KENT, England — Now that the attorney general of California has decided to drop his action against the Church of God, it would seem that the time is appropriate for our thanks to be passed on to you for the way you people (especially those in the immediate area) have stood be-hind the Church in general and Herbert W. Armstrong, Stanley R. Rader and Ralph Helge in particu-

Throughout the (nearly) two years in which the action has been years in which the action has been active not much has been said to you of the way we in the United Kingdom have felt, but believe me we have been inspired by your solid state. For instance, the way you organized the all-day services, the immediate response when the bond was called for and how many of you were prepared to give up your homes in order that the Worldwide Church of God may be brought through this, probably the most se-rious crisis of the age, was most inspiring. All of this, and much more, served to show us (if we needed to be shown) and other religious organizations throughout the United States, that this is indeed God's Church and nothing can stand against it.

One can only wonder that, since the action has been dropped as suddenly as it has been, what has Jesus Christ in mind for the Church

For our part we can but hope that the time will not be long when the whole sorry state of this world's legal systems will be abolished by the return soon of Jesus Christ in order that the saints of God may get on with the task ahead of us.

AMBASSADOR ACTIVITIES

AMERICAN AUTHOR RECOUNTS SOVIET

Recounting his 45 years in the Soviet Union, 18 of which were spent in prison camps during the Stalin era, U.S.-born Victor Herman addressed Ambassador College faculty, students and Church members in the Ambassador Auditorium

Mr. Herman told how, as a 16year old, he went with his family to the Soviet Union to help establish a Ford motor plant in the 1930s. Because he was a friend of a Russian general, he learned to fly at the top Soviet air school. He broke a world record for free-fall parachuting at the age of 19.

At times choking with emotion, Mr. Herman spoke of his arrest during Stalin's purges, together with his family and the Americans at the Ford plant. Mr. Herman was finally able to return to the United States in 1976 after 18 years of hardship in the Gulag prison Present with Mr. Herman was his Russian-born wife Galina, whom he had met as a prisoner At the conclusion of the talk, Deputy Chancellor Raymond McNair presented Mrs. Herman with a bouquet of roses, and Mr

Herman with a copy of the 1980 Envoy and Stanley R. Rader's book Against the Gates of Hell.

STUDENTS SPEND WEEKEND AT CAMP RIVER GLEN

One hundred students left Pasadena Friday afternoon, Oct. 24, to spend the weekend at Camp River Glen in the San Bernardino Mountains. This was the third group of students to visit the camp this semester.

The camp, a two-hour drive from Pasadena, is owned by the Girl Scouts Association and is available to the Church and college during the summer and autumn. It has a large dining hall with kitchen facilities and a number of cabins.
Sabbath services took place in the dining hall, followed by a dance, games and entertainment in the evening

This is a great opportunity to get away from the city and enjoy the outdoors environment. It also helps to build a family spirit among the students and dorms " said Marvin Plakut. director of Housing Services

INTRAMURAL FOOTBALL SEASON ENDS

The men's intramural flag football competition ended Oct. 23 with the freshman, sophomore and junior teams each having won three games to one loss. Jim Petty, director of athletics, was pleased with the results: "Students enjoyed the competition very much. It was an excellent challenge for them This is the type of game where they can really express themselves."

Flag football is an adapted noncontact version of American football, with an emphasis on open-field running. Instead of tackling the man with the ball, the opposing defender must grab a detachable flag from around his opponent's waist, thus ending the play.

"The game incorporates rules according to our beliefs," said Mr. Petty, who explained the Ambassador philosophy to the players at the beginning of the season. Calling them the "big four," he stressed respect for yourself, respect for other players, respect for team captains and respect for the officials.

Captains for the winning teams were Dwyer Hockwald. freshman; Greg Williams, sophomore; and Greg Gaetzman, junior

WITH STANLEY R. RADER

This issue's "Forum" is excerpted from comments made by Stanley R. Rader, the Work's treasurer and general counsel to Herbert W. Armstrong, in Pasadena Oct. 15. Mr. Rader discusses the state dropping the lawsuit against the Church. It is continued from the Oct. 27 issue.

At the same time [post-Guyana], Robert Dole, the senator from Kansas, was on his own Joe McCarthy type witch-hunt, holding hearings in Washington, looking for the big headline. So it all depends, doesn't it, who is in office at the right time and the right place. That's what we have to think about. So let's not be surprised where the next attack comes from. But we'll be a lot more prepared for it, being forewarned is forearmed. And Mr. Helge and I have grown up a great deal.

As I've told people all over this country in the Church and out of the Church, I used to think that I was pretty sophisticated. I thought I was pretty wise about the way the law worked and the way the system worked. And I gave Mr. Armstrong plenty of battles of what I considered to be his intemperate views, his totally intemperate views, when he told me about there being no justice in this world. And that there were only unjust judges, and words to that effect. And I argued. These were friendly arguments but I was determined to try to change his

And Mr. Helge would have given Mr. Armstrong the same kind of argument because he had confidence in the system. But Mr. Armstrong was right, and I was wrong, and it was just right that Mr. Arm strong was right. It's only fit and proper that he was right again, and I've learned my lesson. I don't have that much faith anymore in the sys-

There's no lawyer that has been part of this whole process that has the same faith in the system that he had when it began. They have all seen how one judge can pervert the entire system. One judge, for what-ever his reasons were, he'll have to look into his own heart, one judge can pervert the whole thing and start this whole ball rolling. It may have destroyed the political career of George Deukmejian. A lot of people think it has. It was designed to destroy us, or bend us to the will of that group of people.

But it just took one judge, that's all; not five, seven, or nine, not a division, two divisions, not a whole army; one judge. One judge, one unjust judge was all it took. Think about it. None of you learned that in your civics lessons in school. They didn't teach you that if you studied American history or political science. They never told you about the unjust judge, did they? You never heard about an unjust judge. It only takes one. And they're almost all appointed as a political payoff.

How many of you remember the name President Nixon? Most of you, I guess. How many of you know the name William Rehnquist? Can I see a show of hands? Not everybody, by a longshot. Don't feel so bad. Nixon appointed him for life to the Supreme Court of the United States and couldn't remember his name, and referred to him in the language of the gutter, and it's on one of those Watergate tapes. And he appointed that man for life, and he's making decisions that are affecting millions of people every day. Think about it a second. It's hideous. It's a hideous thing, couldn't remember the man's name. And he is responsible for the 9th Circuit, our circuit. Interesting, isn't it? These are little things that you don't think about.

But go to the Library of Congress

if you get to Washington and listen to those tapes. Listen to the ex-President of the United States referring to his appointee. Couldn't remem-ber his name. Fascinating. And he'll be around another 20 years if Christ hasn't returned by then to wipe it all away. Just think of the damage he's already done. That's what I mean, it only takes one judge. You don't have to go all the way up there.

The judge that did the damage in this case was a little pipsqueak downtown. That's right, a little pipsqueak downtown. He referred to us as a "bowl of spiders" and never laid eves on us.

Let's look at Isaiah 59 for a second if you have your Bible, just for kicks. A lot of allusions in here to judges and justices. Isaiah 59, verse 4. "None calleth for justice, nor any pleadeth for truth: they trust in van-ity, and speak lies; they conceive mischief, and bring forth iniquity. They hatch cockatrice' eggs, and weave the spider's web: he that eat-eth of their eggs dieth, and that which is crushed breaketh out into a viper. Their webs shall not become garments, neither shall they cover themselves with their works: their works are works of iniquity, and the street, and equity cannot enter." Very prophetic. I wonder whether ways. He gives us a good opportuni-ty to right the wrong, to learn a lot from this particular episode in the history of the Work. And I think we've all learned, I think all of you have learned. Some of the incidents that occurred were fascinating.

And I see Wayne Pyle down here, and I've mentioned it in many areas about how he stood up to those people trying to get into the building that day. It was in the documentary. I forget the exact words. Wayne, you can correct me. He said, In the name of the State of California, what was it, open up, isn't that what they said,

Mr. Pyle: All I did was repeat.

And you said, In the name of the State of California, we don't recognize your authority, didn't you? And I thought that was just great.

And then later on I found out that there were people who said Wayne Pyle never recognized anybody's authority. So I don't know whether that's true or not. But God had the right guy in the right place at that moment. And it was a wonderful moment, just one of many.

I think all of you have memories. As I go around I meet people from various places who came in from other cities or who happened to be that reputation for integrity that Mr. Armstrong has built up for himself in a lifetime of almost 90 years, and which I've built up in this community steadfastly year after year after year and put to the use of this Work.

And believe me, that impeccable reputation that I had came in pretty handy during this lawsuit, because every time the attorney general turned around he found somebody else saying, You've got the wrong people in mind. We know these people, you don't, and so on and so forth. But a lot of poison has been put out there. And Mr. Helge and I vere meeting this morning and we talked on the phone last night, all the ways that are going to be necessary to restore to ourselves, the Church as a whole, the brethren collectively and individually, Mr. Armstrong, and to me and to him and to others. They still think he's a thief. Maybe we should adopt Mr. [John] Kines-ton's witticism of yesterday, "Mr. Rader, now you can go out and real-ly steal the $70 million." Maybe that's the answer.

But that must be done, or there's no place for me to return. As long as I have anybody that thinks there's a possibility of my lacking honor and entertained offers all the way back to 1963 to work for the government in a project that I thought would be useful for mankind. So that's some thing that if I found it necessary to return to that more private life, that's one of the things I might contemplate

But again that would be an avenue for the moment foreclosed until this stigma in the minds of some people has been totally erased. Mr. Armstrong is working on it and I'm working on it. And he knows the power of the printed word. And he uses it very well and will continue to do so. But it will take time. It takes a long time to get the poison out.

What about the countersuit against . . .

Good question. Mr. Helge and I are studying it very carefully, we're waiting for input from our appellate lawyers. We're also waiting for our counsel from Professor [Laurence] Tribe at Harvard. I'll be meeting with him in New York on Thursday night and Friday. I don't know the answers to those questions.

We don't even know as yet, what the actual legal effect of the attorney general's withdrawal from the case, what effect it will have on the fees that have been demanded and approved by the lower court for [receiver Steven] Weisman and for all of his cronies, as well as the fees that have been requested by Chodos. So, obviously if those fees, or requests for fees, or the order for the same are not wiped away by this dismissal of the attorney general's case, we're going to have to go forward with all leverage that we can exercise on the problem, to beat down that demand for money, as well as, of course, looking to the federal complaint as the way to vindicate ourselves fully.

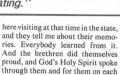

And that would have much to do with this other question of restoring to ourselves that which was taken away from us. But, we'll have until Dec. 1 to make that decision. Because on that date we must file our federal complaint. That's when our time would run out. But I would hope, and I've told this to some members of the press, the specific battle between the attorney general's office and other similar agencies of the state government, and the Worldwide Church of God, its brethren and officers, I would hope that that is a thing of the past.

We're not looking to be vindic-tive. That's not our purpose, never has been. We would not bring a suit simply to make someone pay, but we would to vindicate ourselves if that's the best way to do it, and also to stop others from demanding from us something that they aren't entitled to: as much as 400 and some odd thousand dollars of God's money.

I was wondering if Mr. Armstrong can come to Pasadena now.

"God works in mysterious ways. He gives us a good opportunity to right the wrong, to learn a lot from this particular episode in the history of the Work. And I think we've all learned, I think all of you have learned. Some of the events that occurred were fascinating."

and every occasion Well, I think that gives you a little background as to how the case got settled, what I anticipate for the future. Now you must have some questions and I'd be very happy to answer in the next few minutes.

Mr. Rader, when are we going to get our records back?

I don't know. I would assume that Mr. Helge will be looking into that. Do you have an answer for that Ralph?

Mr. Helge: Not at this time.

Not at this time. Of course, they only have copies of our records. They don't have the records themselve But it's one of the things, one of the details that we'll have to clean up

Mr. Rader, in your last article on I Just Want to Return to Private Life," your last paragraph there mentioned something about government service and resigning the min-istry, and could you clarify that?

I said resigning my ministry. You have to go back and read the ad very, very carefully. I said that when this lawsuit is over, when the battle's all over and all the dust has settled. I said what I'd like to do is return to a private life.

And I still believe that when all he dust settles that that's one of the things that I will consider very strongly, if I find that for any reason at all I consider that I am a stumbling block for anybody in the Church or out of the Church. But, of course, I also said that it must be consistent with God's will and that also means consistent with what Mr. Arm-strong would want for me. But the dust will not settle all that quickly.

One of the first things we must is our reputations and our honor Mr. Armstrong doing the same thing until we have been restored to integrity, there's no chance of my being able to represent them very easily. But a stumbling block I do not want to be. An aide and an assistant to the Church and to Mr. Arm strong, I do. But I never said I would withdraw from the ministry. You must learn to read more carefully. I said my ministry. My ministry meant my ministry, at that time was administration over finances. etc., etc., and that can always change at any time.

But it's a good question; I'm glad it's on your mind. It's on Mr. Helge's mind today and on my mind. What do we do to restore honor? We don't mind wearing the badges of having fought honorably in a battle. Those are called scars and scars that are earned as a result of suffering wounds in an honorable battle are considered, in most places, as badges of honor. But first we must be able to find a way to con-vince the whole world that this battle was an honorable battle. We've convinced the legislature. We have convinced the governor. We've con-vinced the major and minor denominations, the constitutional lawyers and the civil libertarians

"Every time the attorney general turned around he found somebody else saying,

But there's a lot of poison to wash out of the minds of the public. And Mr. Armstrong is already writing new ads, pounding away at that typewriter to restore to himself and to the Church, and to the brethren and to me that which was taken away from us, illegally, unlawfully, unconstitutionally

You've got the wrong people in mind.

Government service, sir, what do you mean by government service?

I have often contemplated over the years, and on several occasions I made specific moves in that direc-tion, preferably at the federal level so that I could do the greatest amount of good for the greatest number of people, kind of a Jeremy Bentham, utilitarian approach That was generally in the years before I was a member.

I've always tried to work on that principle, that whatever is of real social value, or utility, is to try to do the greatest amount of good for the greatest number of people. And I've

Well, there was nothing stopping Mr. Armstrong from coming to Pasadena all this time. It was just a question of whether or not it was worth the risk of exposing him to harassment. As long as he had a refuge there, that made it more diffilt for anyone to get personal jurisdiction over him. Being that he was so comfortable in Tucson, already been residing there anyway for a year and a half or more when this lawsuit began and was fully equipped to carry on the great com-mission from there, there was no reason for him to come in here.

I would say that probably by Dec. 1, which would be shortly after we have returned from this trip, unless something develops that I cannot anticipate at this moment or clearly foresee, then he would be able to come back and forth. But I don't think he'll spend the greater portion of his time here in the future. I think he can get the work that he has to do, done better there.

that's fallen on the judiciary. Be-lieve me, they know it's shameful. And my ads of recent date have brought it home to them. Did anyone see that ad, the letter to Judge Pacht? I don't think he'll have the guts to stand up and say he's wrong. But we do have in the wings one man, an unimpeachable source, un-impeachable witness, who, if the chips are down will come in and say what Judge Pacht told him four or five months after the case got off the ground. God works in mysterious

NEWS OF PEOPLE. PLACES & EVENTS IN THE WORLDWIDE CHURCH OF GOD

PASADENA - Church mem bers in Europe are facing threats of violence, according to evangelist Dibar Apartian, regional director for the French-speaking areas in God's Work.

Bernard Andrist, office manager in Geneva, Switzerland, sent Mr. Apartian the following telex: "On the Sabbath, 10th of October . . the manager of our meeting hall came to see me. She was upset and told me that she just received a phone call from somebody asking if the meetings of Le Monde A Venir (the French World Tomorrow program) are at 10 a.m. Then the voice on the phone said: 'Tell them that they too will receive their parcel. We are certainly associated with the - in Switzerland fascism is lifting its head too.'

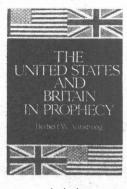

Because of recent bombings of synagogues and Jewish-owned buildings in France, Mr. Apartian and Rod Matthews, manager of the International Office of Ministerial Services, asked members to remember the brethren in their prayers.

PASADENA - Pastor General Herbert W. Armstrong's new case-bound book, The United States and Britain in Prophecy, is available in bookstores, according to Publishing Services here. Published in hardback by Everest House, it is the first of Mr. Armstrong's books to feature full-color maps and photos.

A new printing of the booklet ver-sion will be completed in late November, say sources in Publishing Services. Additional color pictures and a higher quality paper is being used. A German translation of the booklet will be printed with the English version

PASADENA Work is progressing on Youth 81 according to Managing Director Dexter H. Faulkner. Pastor General Herbert W. Armstrong set the wheels in motion [WN, Oct. 27] for the new magazine directed toward God's youths. Preliminary studies are nearing completion, Mr. Faulkner said.

The managing editor of the Work's publications pointed out that copy for the first issue is being prepared for Mr. Armstrong's review. He noted that the editorial staff working on the new project is "excited and looking forward to the first issue — which, as Mr. Armstrong said, will be a collector's edition."

The staff is working closely with Kevin Dean, Mr. Armstrong's liaison for the Church's educational programs, said Mr. Faulkner, Input from the field ministry and youths in God's Church regarding editorial content is welcome, he added.

PASADENA - More than 21,000 subscriptions were added to The Plain Truth mailing list as a result of the new waiting-room pro-gram, says Boyd Leeson, U.S. Plain Truth circulation manager.
The program allows Church members to call waiting rooms of doctors, lawyers, dentists and other professionals to offer free subscriptions to the magazine. Upon acceptance, a Plain Truth with four coupons offering free subscriptions is sent. This exposes each magazine to several people.

Many pastors praised the pro-gram, saying that getting involved with the Work helps members be-come more unified. Pastor Marc Segall of the Chico, Calif., church stated, "We are very pleased with these new concepts and programs to allow the members to help promote the Gospel."

Philadelphia, Pa., pastor Carlos Perkins added: "The idea of giving the brethren an opportunity of sharing in God's Work . . . has proven to be a tremendous spiritual lift. The initial response has been tremendously gratifying."

A great deal of work is being put into the program, according to Mr. Leeson. He related that those in-volved are to be congratulated for their efforts. Pastors interested in starting a waiting-room program can contact Mr. Leeson at Publishing Services in Pasadena.

PASADENA — Whether or not this Feast was your first, you can relate to this story from the Nether-lands. The Feast at the Hunzebergen was certainly the best ever with 364 people enjoying sunshine each a remarkable event for the fall season. Eighty-nine brethren came from countries including the United States, Canada, Australia, South Africa, England, Scotland and Tanzania. Our lone guest from Tanzania was Tom Kaswaga, He and nine others from his country were sent to the Netherlands by their government this summer for technical training at Philips Indus-

Baptized in 1973 and unable to attend the Feast of Tahernacles he cause of local conditions and restric tions, Mr. Kaswaga was scheduled to return to Tanzañia with his group one week before. His visa would expire at the same time and once back in Tanzania the chances to attend a Feast would be nil.

The Philips organization was willing to cooperate in having Mr. Kaswaga's visa extended, if he could receive approval from his employer to remain two additional weeks. He wrote his employer and everyone prayed. Two days before his group returned home, a telegram arrived saying that his leave of absence was extended. Thus, Mr. Kaswaga attended his first Feast thanks to the intervention of Almighty God.

The spirit at the Hunzebergen was one of unity and peace. In England video recordings were made of Pastor General Herbert W. Armstrong's message as it came live by

United Kingdom Festival

The Festival at Brighton, England, was the first time in many years that the entire U.K. and Eire membership met together at one site. The Feast was heightened by the good reception of the microwave transmission from Tucson on the evening of the first day. The 4,140 brethren watching in the Brighton Convention Centre benefited from such an inspirational start to the Feast. God granted exceptional weather for the time of year. (See article, page 3.)

Germans enjoy Feast

One hundred sixty Feastgoers, 60 of whom came from overseas, kept an inspiring, as well as physically blessed Feast, in Carlsbad, Czecho-slovakia. Satan's attempt to ruin the Feast by preventing the attendance of our East German and Polish brethren was unsuccessful.

High spirits and gorgeous weath-er marked the other German-lan-guage Feast in Bonndorf, in West Germany's Black Forest. An exhilarating feeling of unity and brother hood was present, inspiring the members, who left a good impression on the community. (Many Bonndorfers said our congregation was "the neatest and best-organized" of all the groups using the convention center.) Six hundred members attended at Bonndorf, 50 of these from other areas. The offer ings on the first and second Holy Days showed increases of 19 percent and 76 percent respectively. Attendance was up 7 percent.

Members face danger

Many members are beginning to personally experience the deterio-rating situations in the world. For example: Some weeks ago, Leon Walker, regional director of the Spanish-speaking areas of God's Work, received a sobering letter from Herbert Cisneros, our elder in El Salvador:

"Greetings from the tiny and violence-racked nation of El Salvador With respect to the violence in El Salvador, I must inform you that on Saturday, Aug. 2, at 7:30 in the evening, the mother of Maria Scarlet de Pinto, a Church member, was assassinated by leftist guerrillas. Her (the Church member's) father had to leave El Salvador since it is really he they wish to kill, just because he had been in the army several years ago.

"Patricia Arguello, another Church member, was assaulted as she was leaving the gynecologist's office after giving birth to a baby boy. The object of the assault was to steal her husband's automobile, but when the attackers saw that Mrs Arguello was carrying a newborn baby, they let the couple go free. Auto theft has become a real plague among the Salvadorians; it is esti-mated that about 50 cars are stolen every day.

"In spite of the incidents I have just related, I can say that we have no major problems. The war that is being waged here is largely a psy-chological one, which produces a very tense situation. It is so tense, in fact, that I have had to anoint several members lately for stress-related problems. The tense atmosphere in which we live is heightened by incidents of setting fire to city buses. wide-scale thievery, constantly ex-ploding bombs and by guerilla ambushes bushes.

"Much of this is carried out by groups that have fost popular support and are consequently taking revenge on the general populace. They set fire to croplands and ranches in rural areas, murdering farmers and coercing them at gunpoint to participate in the strikes and other demonstrations that the superillas declare. guerillas declare.

"In spite of all the above men-tioned difficulties, we continue lifting up our prayers and asking the Eternal to protect and care for us. Also, we pray for the rulers of this country so that we may be able to lead a quiet and peaceable life."

Philippines update

An advertisement Aug. 24 placed in Panorama Magazine, the Sunday magazine of the Bulletin To-day, pulled 1,262 responses in one week for The Plain Truth and the booklet Does God Exist.

Newsstand: Thanks to continued financial support from the United States and Canada, the superb glossy Plain Truth magazine really attracts. Previously, The Plain Truth was printed locally in the Philippines on newsprint to maintain cir-culation within a tight budget. Now it's printed in Kentucky and freighted to Manila each month. Our newsstand displays of The Plain Truth in full color and in high quality glossy paper attracted near-ly 1,500 new subscribers. Past combined newsstand responses averaged 500 a month.

We had 2,904 new requests for Plain Truth subscriptions in August; this total was 73 percent more than new requests the previous month.

Regional director Colin Adair's sixth Plain Truth lecture covering the Middle East in prophecy attracted 69 new people Aug. 31 in Muslim Zamboanga City, Mindanao, 850 kilometers southwest of Manila. Thirty new people attended the follow-up session the afternoon of the same day.

Cumulative income as of Aug. 31 registered an increase of 27 percent more than the same period last year.
